

Dr. Jesús Treviño is the current Vice President for Inclusive Excellence at Rocky Vista University College of Osteopathic Medicine in Denver Colorado. His background and experiences include serving as Vice Provost for Inclusive Excellence at the University of Arizona, Vice-President for Diversity at the University of South Dakota, and Associate Vice-Provost for Multicultural Excellence at the University of Denver. Dr. Treviño also served as the Senior Executive Officer for the Leadership in Diversity Group, a diversity and inclusion firm in Tucson, AZ. Dr. Treviño earned both a Ph.D. and a master's degree in Higher Education from UCLA. He also has a second master's degree in Language and International Business as well as a bachelor's degree in social work with emphasis on community organizing from Eastern Michigan University. His areas of expertise include Inclusive Excellence, race and organizations, intergroup dialogues, implicit bias, students of color success, racialized workplaces, and DEI change in higher education.